

CASA KUSINA

Homemade Filipino Meals

DELIVERED FRESH DAILY

HOME-COOKED
WITH LOVE.
MADE FOR YOU.

SUBMITTED BY
Elaine I. Verdan

PROGRAM
BSIT-4

COURSE
Technopreneurship

DATE SUBMITTED
May 21, 2026

BUSINESS PLAN

*A plan for delivering quality,
affordable, and home-cooked
Filipino meals to our community.*

01 EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Casa Kusina is a home-based food delivery business specializing in affordable, freshly cooked Filipino meals — including adobo, sinigang, kare-kare, and daily lunch and dinner sets. The business targets students, working professionals, and families within the local community who seek convenient, budget-friendly, home-cooked quality meals.

Orders are placed via social media and messaging applications, with same-day delivery fulfilled within the service area. The purpose of the business is to address the growing demand for accessible and quality meal options while generating a sustainable source of income for the owner.

02 DESCRIPTION OF THE BUSINESS

Nature of the Business

Casa Kusina is a micro food enterprise operating from a home kitchen that delivers meals directly to customers. It falls under the food service and delivery industry, catering to everyday dining needs within the local community.

Products and Services Offered

The business offers daily meal sets (rice + viand), individual ulam orders, bulk meal packages for offices and small events, and special holiday food packs. Popular menu items include chicken adobo, pork sinigang, beef caldereta, pinakbet, and assorted kakanin for merienda.

What Makes the Business Unique

Unlike fast food or commercial catering, Casa Kusina focuses on authentic, home-style Filipino cooking using fresh, locally sourced ingredients. Customers receive the taste and comfort of homemade food without the hassle of cooking — at prices more accessible than restaurant meals. Same-day delivery and customizable meal options further distinguish the business from competitors.

03 MARKET ANALYSIS

Target Customers

The primary market includes college students in dormitories or boarding houses, employees working near or from home, and families seeking a daily break from cooking. The secondary market encompasses small offices seeking bulk meal arrangements and individuals organizing small gatherings or celebrations.

Possible Competitors

Key competitors include local carinderias, fast food chains such as Jollibee and Mang Inasal, and food delivery platforms like GrabFood and Foodpanda. However, these competitors generally lack the personalized, home-cooked quality and menu customization that Casa Kusina provides.

Market Demand

With the continued rise of remote work and the increasing appetite for food delivery services across the Philippines, there is a strong and growing market for affordable, home-cooked meal options. Many consumers desire meals that evoke comfort and familiarity but lack the time or resources to prepare them.

Marketing Strategy

The business will leverage Facebook and Instagram for daily menu promotions, food photography, and customer reviews. Orders will be accepted via Messenger and Viber group chats. A loyalty discount program will incentivize repeat customers and word-of-mouth referrals. An introductory free delivery promotion within a 2-km radius will be offered during the launch period.

04 PRODUCTION / OPERATIONS PLAN

How the Product Will Be Created and Delivered

Meals are prepared fresh each morning beginning at 5:00 AM. Orders are collected the evening prior through social media or messaging applications. Ingredients are prepared, meals are cooked, and orders are packed in sealed food containers — ready for delivery or pickup by 11:00 AM for lunch orders and 4:00 PM for dinner.

Materials and Equipment Needed

Cooking equipment includes a gas stove, large pots and pans, a rice cooker, and a food thermometer. Packaging consists of eco-friendly food containers, paper bags, and branded labeling stickers. Ingredients are sourced fresh daily from the local market. A delivery motorcycle will be used for local order fulfillment.

Daily Business Operations

5:00 AM	Ingredient sourcing from local market
6:00 AM	Meal preparation and cooking begins
10:00 AM	Order packing and delivery preparation
11:00 AM	Lunch delivery and pickup window
2:00 PM	Dinner order intake and ingredient prep
4:00 PM	Dinner cooking and packing
5:30 PM	Dinner delivery and pickup window
7:00 PM	Daily accounting, social media updates, and next-day order collection

05 ORGANIZATIONAL PLAN

Role	Person Assigned	Duties and Responsibilities
Owner / Manager	Elaine I. Verdan	Overall management, menu planning, budgeting, marketing strategy, and final decision-making.
Head Cook	To be hired	Preparation and cooking of all daily meals; ensures food quality and safety standards are maintained.
Kitchen Assistant	To be hired	Assists in food preparation, ingredient washing, portioning, and kitchen sanitation.
Delivery Staff	To be hired	Manages order packaging, delivery logistics, route planning, and direct customer coordination.

06 FINANCIAL PLAN

Estimated Start-Up Capital

Item	Estimated Cost
Cooking equipment (pots, pans, stove, rice cooker)	₱ 8,000.00
Initial ingredient stock (1 week supply)	₱ 3,500.00
Packaging materials (containers, bags, labels)	₱ 1,500.00
Marketing materials (flyers, social media ads)	₱ 500.00
Miscellaneous / contingency fund	₱ 1,500.00
TOTAL ESTIMATED CAPITAL	₱ 15,000.00

Estimated Monthly Expenses

Expense Item	Monthly Cost
Ingredients and raw materials	₱ 12,000.00
Packaging supplies	₱ 1,200.00
Delivery fuel and transport	₱ 800.00
Utilities (gas, electricity, water)	₱ 1,500.00
Labor — 2 part-time staff	₱ 4,000.00
Marketing and promotions	₱ 300.00
TOTAL MONTHLY EXPENSES	₱ 19,800.00

Estimated Monthly Sales / Income

Projection Basis	Amount
Average daily orders: 30 meal sets × ₱80 per set	₱ 2,400.00 / day
Operating days per month	26 days
TOTAL ESTIMATED MONTHLY SALES	₱ 62,400.00

Estimated Monthly Profit

	Amount
Total Monthly Sales	₱ 62,400.00
Less: Total Monthly Expenses	₱ 19,800.00
ESTIMATED MONTHLY PROFIT	₱ 42,600.00

07 CONCLUSION

Casa Kusina is positioned to become a successful and sustainable food business by directly addressing a real and growing need — affordable, home-cooked Filipino meals delivered conveniently to the customer's door. With a lean starting capital of ₱15,000 and a projected monthly profit exceeding ₱42,000, the venture presents a financially sound and personally fulfilling entrepreneurial opportunity.

Beyond profitability, the business contributes meaningfully to the community by creating local employment, supporting nearby farmers and market vendors through ingredient sourcing, and celebrating Filipino culinary heritage. With consistent quality, disciplined operations, and a customer-first mindset, Casa Kusina has every foundation to grow from a home-based enterprise into a recognized and trusted local food brand.

Prepared by: Elaine I. Verdan | BSIT-4 | Technopreneurship | May 21, 2026

Taste the Comfort of Home.